

KOCHI

Tracing a musical journey

SPECIAL CORRESPONDENT

OCTOBER 28, 2017 01:48 IST

UPDATED: OCTOBER 28, 2017 07:38 IST

A Delicate Wave to be screened in city today

KOCHI: The Cochin Film Society and the Orthic Creative Centre are joining hands to felicitate award-winning documentary filmmakers K.P. Jayasankar and Anjali Monteiro at the Children's Park Theatre on Park Avenue Road at 5.30 p.m. on Saturday.

A galaxy of eminent personalities, including oncologist V.P. Gangadharan, former civil servant K.R. Viswambharan, filmmaker Dilish Pothen, critic I. Shanmughadas, and artist T. Kaladharan will take part in the event.

The programme will be followed by a screening of A Delicate Wave directed by the duo, faculty members at the School of Media and Cultural Studies at Tata Institute of Social Sciences.

Set in Kutch, Gujarat, A Delicate Wave, the latest in their Kutch trilogy, traces four different musical journeys, all converging in the ways they affirm religious diversity, syncretism, and love of the other.

Poetic legacy

Drawing on the poetic and musical traditions of Kabir and Shah Bhitai, as well as the folk traditions of the region, these remarkable musicians and singers bear testimony to how the oral traditions of compassion are being passed down from one generation to the next.

THE  HINDU

Our code of editorial values

Printable version | Dec 1, 2021 6:38:37 PM |

<https://www.thehindu.com/news/cities/Kochi/tracing-a-musical-journey/article19935442.ece>

© THG PUBLISHING PVT LTD.
